WALKERVILLE PUBLIC LIBRARY

PREFACE

In presenting to our patrons our fourteenth Directory of Windsor, Sandwich and Walkerville, we hope that it will meet with approval. A thorough canvas of the town has been made, and every effort has been used to obtain the name of every person who should be presented in the Directory.

Mistakes will occur, but we are confident that no more thorough canvas of the towns has ever been made.

THE CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY is a complete mirror of the business interests of the towns and presents them to the outside world only as a business Directory can.

THE MISCELLANEOUS DIRECTORY furnishes a large amount of information useful to Strangers.

Thanking our patrons for the liberal patronage bestowed, we remain

Yours Respectfully,

THE PUBLISHER

WYOMING

The state of Wyoming is a land of vast natural resources, including coal, oil, and natural gas. It is also known for its scenic beauty, with the Grand Teton National Park and Yellowstone National Park being major attractions. The state's economy is heavily dependent on the extraction and export of these natural resources.

The state capital is Cheyenne, and the largest city is Casper. Wyoming is a member of the Mountain West Conference and the National Association of State Legislatures.

The state's history is rich and varied, with a long tradition of ranching and mining. The state was admitted to the Union as the 44th state in 1909. It has since become a major producer of energy and a significant contributor to the national economy.

The state's government is divided into three branches: executive, legislative, and judicial. The governor is the head of the executive branch, and the state legislature is the highest law-making body. The state judiciary is headed by the state supreme court.

The state's economy is primarily based on the extraction and export of natural resources. The state's major industries are coal, oil, and natural gas. The state also has a significant agricultural sector, with cattle and sheep raising being the primary activities.

The state's population is relatively small, with a total of approximately 600,000 residents. The population is concentrated in the eastern part of the state, particularly in the Cheyenne area. The state's economy is heavily dependent on the extraction and export of natural resources.

Windsor, Walkerville

The City of Windsor is delightfully situated on the south bank of the Detroit River and opposite the American City of that name. During the early days of the French Regime and English supremacy its chief importance was its proximity to Detroit. It was known as South Detroit until a public meeting was held in the old Hutton Tavern and the name Windsor suggested and adopted. The name of South Detroit was given to it by a man named McDougall from York (Toronto) who purchased property along the River Bank where the old City Hall, Market, etc. now stand, and laid out the village plot in 1830.

A large import and export business is now done in Windsor, it being a principal point for the entrance and forwarding of merchandise for Western Ontario.

The assessor's valuation for this year is $3,200,000.00, in 1880 the assessment was slightly under $2,000,000.00. The bonded indebtedness is $855,000.00 but Windsor contains more public improvements than most cities of twice or even three times its size, which accounts for the large amount; its sewers, paved streets, sidewalks and water works covering many miles of territory.

The population for this year is 15,260. Walkerville adjoining on the east has over 3,000. Sandwich adjoining on the west about 2,000, and a street car system serves the three places. A suburban line runs hourly to Amherstburg, 18 miles down the river, another line south to Leamington, 35 miles, and one to Tecumseh, 9 miles east.

Many lines of Steamers call here in the Summer and the Railroads. The Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific, Wabash, Pere Marquette and Michigan Central all have depots in the city.

The Ferry crossing to Detroit is slightly under half a mile and large fast ferry boats cross to Woodward Avenue Detroit, from Ouellette Ave in Windsor every 15 minutes.

That Windsor is making substantial progress will be noted by a comparison of the censuses. In 1871 the population was 4253; 1881—6561; 1891—10321; 1901—11041, and for this year 1907 the assessor's census gives 15,260, an increase of nearly 40 per cent in the last six years.

The prospects of the city are at present bright and its advantages as a manufacturing and residential community are becoming better known, and of the smaller cities it is evidently holding more than its own.
